

No One Left Behind

To the Dispatch:

Recently there was a meeting at the County Administration Building concerning the issue of transportation costs for the clients of the Pike County Developmental Center.

The value for the clients focuses upon three areas: enhancement of basic academic skills, development of life skills and promotion of social skills.

There is an enormous amount of government funding given to many academic programs from the elementary school level to college tuition grants, etc. Satisfaction of these needs is justified. No one could do everything, but everyone could do something. This is the philosophy of the PCDC.

We have the obligation to prepare all of our citizens for a quality life style. Everyone has something to contribute. This is our basic belief.

To quote David Ben Gurion, "one who does not believe in miracles is not a realist."

Sincerely,
Morton Tener

Fuel For Thought

To the Dispatch:

I can't believe that I'm the only person outraged by the current gasoline prices. I'm shocked that Americans aren't demanding an explanation! Where are our leaders? Bottom line, what deal has been made where?

Sincerely,
Peggy Emanuel,
Milford
